ABOUT GIAST

GIAST, an affiliate of GGSIPU, Dwarka, and a pioneer in Teacher Training was set up under the aegis of Rohini Educational Society in 1999 with prime objective of nurturing every student-teacher as “responsible” teacher. The institute is a venture of its own kind where educators and professionals have joined hands to produce effective teachers.

GIAST is a renowned Institute that promotes indepth thinking among the trainees and illuminates prime values and skills for professional and personal growth. In today’s highly competitive era, schools are equipping the teachers who are multi-talented and have strong creative skills along with the understanding of students to shape their future. To fulfill the need of society and to face the challenges of life, the budding teachers are to be prepared to cope with the changing societal and professional needs drawing out the best from the Ancient Era as well. For this GIAST is providing platform to enhance the potential of aspirant teachers.

Gitarattan Institute of Advanced Studies and Training has emerged as a widely recognized center of excellence in Teacher Education. It is committed to produce excellent teachers who are highly motivated, globally competitive and are living models of human values. They are capable of transforming acquired knowledge and skills into professional life to nurture the future of the nation.

The Institute is organizing a National Seminar on “Values are Caught, not Taught –Teachers as Models” on Wednesday 8th April’ 2020.

We solicit your gracious presence on this occasion to make this event a grand success.

About the National Seminar :

Kids don’t Remember what you Teach them.
They Remember what you Are.

There is a strong and persistent view that one of the worst crisis of our time is the 'Crisis of Character'. These days social, moral, cultural and spiritual values are disintegrating, religion losing its hold, power and knowledge are misused for vested interests, nations fail to trust one another and black-marketing, corruption, barbarism, indiscipline and violence are fast spreading. A chaotic situation is observed in almost all the spheres of our life.

According to Dr. S. Radhakrishnan the troubles of the whole world are because of the fact that education has been becoming a mere intellectual exercise and not the aid for acquisition of moral and spiritual values.

Radhakrishnan Commission (1948), Sri Prakasa Committee on Religious and Moral Instruction (1959), Kothari Commission (1964-66), National Policy on Education (1986) and Programme of Action, NPE (1992) and later documents in this connection have been highlighting the urgent need for value education. According to Tagore, in order to emphasize the need and importance of value oriented education, the greatest use of Education is not merely to collect facts but to know man and make oneself known to man (Mehndirata, 1997, P. 981). Value Education forms the foundation of character and moral development. It is able to inculcate in children humility, truthfulness, tolerance, honesty, sincerity, courtesy, sympathy, fellow feeling, affection spirit of service and sacrifice through education. The National Policy on Education (NPE, 1986) has rightly pointed out the crisis in values in all aspects of life. Therefore it has recommended a special thrust on inculcation of values at all stages of education, especially at the school stage.

The first and foremost educational agency in the development of children is the family itself. After a particular age they enter school which is the next and most important agency for their development. It is the climate and ethos of the school which is the most significant factor for developing values in children. In the school the curriculum, teachers, friends and all the like influence their moral development.

The teacher is essentially a part and parcel of the society. He is preparing the child in a small community known as school for a larger community known as the society. The teacher is responsible for the allround development of the child in physical, intellectual, emotional, psychic and spiritual domains.

The SEMINAR intends to provide a common platform for teacher educators, academicians and eminent educationists from the field of education to share their concerns and deliberate upon the issues and challenges of Values are Caught, not taught –Teachers as Models.

In the SEMINAR, the experts express their opinion on the subject circulated to them. Different experts may have different views on the theme they are speaking on. As is true about the concept of a seminar, the learned experts present their view points on the seminar-topic/s. The ideas emerging from the deep thoughts expressed by the experts, become a pool of knowledge which may become the guidelines for the participants & their colleagues and other stakeholders.
